MARY T. PARFITT GROWER OF PERENNIALS

New Milford, Connecticut

at the Prudence Seymour Gardens which are situated on the Danbury-Litchfield Road four miles north of New Milford.

Every care will be given by me to ship only strong healthy and true-to-name plants. Plants proving untrue to name will be replaced by me without charge. However, I give no guaranty as to results for their growth depends on soil, care and conditions over which I have no control.

If customers wish plants sent by Parcel Post, they should add 10 per cent. of the value of the order for postage to all points east of the Mississippi River and 20 per cent. for all points west of the Mississippi.

Our gardens are carefully examined each year by inspectors of the State Department of Entomology and each shipment bears the certificate of inspection.

SPECIAL COLLECTION OF OLD-FASHIONED PERENNIALS

The perennial garden is as fitting a setting for the modern home as it always has been for the old homestead in the country. Back in the Colonial days our great-grandmothers took much pride in their hardy gardens, sending across the sea to their former homes in England, France, or Holland for seeds and bulbs, with which to beautify their home gardens in the new world. As years rolled by fashions changed, perennial plants were neglected and tender hot-house plants, set out in formal designs were in vogue. But for several years there has been a steadily increasing interest in the reliable hardy favorities of the old-fashioned garden. Plants that come up year after year making larger clumps with more and more flowers as the plants grow stronger.

To all lovers of the old-fashioned garden I
